US$0.67 million Order Received

SRT is pleased to announce that it has received a single order worth US$0.67 million for a mixture of Class A and Class B OEM products from a North American based customer. The order will be shipped to the customer during August and September this year.

Simon Tucker said: "General core demand for AIS continues to grow annually and this is reflected in the increasing frequency with which we receive orders from existing customers. From time to time these orders are of a substantial individual value as in this case. Our supply chain strategy of holding a mixture of long lead time components, modules and finished stock enables us to react quickly to such orders and meet our customers' requirements."
